NOTES

I had 3 choices for fronts:

1- Ash because its the only natural wood and it complements the flooring (I think?).

2-Turquoise- I like it but I think its too personal

3- Recycled- functional "real" eco

The appliances are IKEA appliances not necessarily the ones we will use but the right size to dope out the design

Horizontal cabinets above are all the rage.

We are stuck with the position of the sink because of the plumbing.

We are stuck with the length of the sinkside counter because of the floor and the dinette radiator.

Things I'm Not Sure Of:

Is there room to connect the stove exhaust to the existing duct under the counter in the island?

The sink cabinet below is a refuse/recycle cabinet. Is there really room with the garbage disposal there?

Because of the length of the island, the stove needs to be off center about 15" either towards the fridge or the patio door. I think more counter on the fridge side is better.

The wall cabinets are 15" deep. The existing wall cabinets are 12" deep. Theres 17" between the bottom of the wall cabs and the counter. Is that cramped?

Are the backs and sides of the base cabinets "finished" or do we have to frame in a finished wall where those sides are exposed. If so, the sizes may not work.

Is the exposed side of the fridge okay? Mom had a panel there. If there needs to be a panel, there may not be enough room for the cabinets i selected.

The jutting out of the fridge problem is solved with a 30" deep fridge. Is that okay?
