Important Notice: Please read this information - the Required Minimum Distribution Rules have changed for Traditional IRA contracts, only for 2009. 2008 distributions are not affected.

If your birth date is January 1, 1938 to June 30, 1938, you reached age 70 1/2 by December 31, 2008. If you did not take the distribution during calendar year 2008, you must still take your first lifetime Required Minimum Distribution (RMD) for your IRA contract for the 2008 year before your April 1, 2009 "Required Beginning Date" for starting lifetime Required Minimum Distributions.

For all Traditional IRA contract owners born before July 1, 1938 (you were at least age 70 1/2 on December 31, 2008): AXA Equitable is required to report to the IRS that you are part of the group that must take RMDs for their IRA contracts. Under normal rules, by December 31, 2009 you would have to take a lifetime RMD for your IRA contract for calendar year 2009. For calendar year 2009 only, Congress has suspended the requirement for you to take an RMD calculated for this IRA contract for calendar year 2009. In following years, you will have to take your RMD by December 31 of that year, that is, you will have to take a lifetime RMD for calendar year 2010 by December 31, 2010.

For all Traditional IRA contract owners born July 1, 1938 to December 31, 1938 (you turn age 70 1/2 during
