IMPORTANT CHANGE CONCERNING THE PROCESSING OF YOUR CHECKS
 EFFECTIVE MARCH 20, 2009

As checks you have written are presented to us for payment during the course of a business day, we will place a hold on available funds in your account for the amount of those checks, resulting in a reduction in your available account balance throughout that day. The held funds will be applied to those checks when they are processed later that day. You will now be able to obtain basic information about those checks on the day they are presented either at the ATM, on-line or by phone. Full details about those checks will be available to you the next business day.

CHANGES TO CITIBANK'S FUNDS AVAILABILITY POLICY

Effective immediately, the Standard Funds Availability Schedule is amended, in part, to treat all check deposits as local. Previously nonlocal checks were subject to longer delays. If your check deposit is not eligible for expedited availability in accordance with our general policies, the following delays apply: check deposits of $5,000 or less are available on the third business day after the business day of deposit ($400 of that deposit becoming available on second business day). Check deposits of more than $5,000 are available on the fourth business day after the business day of deposit. The following restates Citibank's policy with respect to the availability of the first $100 of your business day's deposits to a checking, savings, or money market account: For teller deposits, the first $100 is available immediately, and for ATM deposits, the first $100 is available on the business day after the business day of deposit, unless the deposit is to a checking account in which case the first $100 is available immediately. All other terms and conditions of the funds availability policy as set forth in the Marketplace Addendum continue to apply.
