About Trailing Interest

You may see interest on your next statement even if you pay the new balance in full and on time and make no new charges. This is called "trailing interest". Trailing interest is the interest charged when, for example, you didn't pay your previous balance in full. When that happens, we charge interest from the first day of the billing period until we receive your payment in full. You can avoid paying interest on purchases by paying your balance in full (or if you have a Plan balance, by paying your Adjusted Balance on your billing statement) by the due date each month. Please see the "When we charge interest" sub-section in your Cardmember Agreement for details.

Information on Pay Over Time and Purchasing Options

Your Card has no preset spending limit

No preset spending limit means your spending limit is flexible. In fact, unlike a traditional credit card with a set limit, the amount you can spend adapts based on factors such as your purchase, payment, and credit history. If you're ever unsure if a large purchase will be approved, you can use the Check Spending Power tool in your online account or mobile app. Please note that in a small number of cases, we may assign a specific spending limit to a Card Member's account due to a variety of factors such as the Card Member's credit score, past due payments with us or other creditors, or high balances on revolving credit accounts.
