

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO
DEPARTMENT OF CHEMISTRY
LABORATORY OF ORGANIC CHEMISTRY

1. The reaction of 1,2-dibromoethane with sodium metal in ether yields ethane and sodium bromide. The reaction is a redox reaction in which the sodium metal is oxidized to sodium ions and the 1,2-dibromoethane is reduced to ethane. The reaction is as follows:

2. The reaction of 1,2-dibromoethane with sodium metal in ether yields ethane and sodium bromide. The reaction is a redox reaction in which the sodium metal is oxidized to sodium ions and the 1,2-dibromoethane is reduced to ethane. The reaction is as follows:

3. The reaction of 1,2-dibromoethane with sodium metal in ether yields ethane and sodium bromide. The reaction is a redox reaction in which the sodium metal is oxidized to sodium ions and the 1,2-dibromoethane is reduced to ethane. The reaction is as follows:

4. The reaction of 1,2-dibromoethane with sodium metal in ether yields ethane and sodium bromide. The reaction is a redox reaction in which the sodium metal is oxidized to sodium ions and the 1,2-dibromoethane is reduced to ethane. The reaction is as follows: